Claudia's nabs AAU berth

Claudia's tightened up its defense after falling behind, 10-4, early in the Oregon AAU Major Basketball Tournament championship game Sunday and went on to register a 106-101 victory over Lu's Freedom Stars at Mt. Scott.

"We weren't getting back on defense early in the game," said Claudia's Coach Walt Spitznagel. "They were running on us and getting the layin'."

Lu's guard Amos Allen led the early charge, scoring three quick baskets.

But Claudia's took the lead for good when former Portland Trail Blazer Greg Smith hit a three-point play to make the score 56-53 with 18 seconds remaining in the half.

And Claudia's wasn't finished with the half.

Ray Willis scored following a Lu's turnover and Smith sank another shot following a steal to make the halftime score 60-53.

"We have bigger people than they do and we started getting the rebounds," said Spitznagel. "When we stay with our offense and get back on defense it takes a good team to beat us."

The Freedom Stars almost proved to be that "good team" as they rallied from an 11-point deficit midway through the final half, cutting Claudia's lead to three, 98-95, with four minutes remaining.

But free-throw shooting problems plagued Lu's at the end.

Henry Harris was high man for Claudia's with 24 points

Claudia's, which last won the state title in 1970, advances to the Northwest Regional tournament next Saturday and Sunday at Seattle.

Vaughn Realty Whips Studs, Gains Revenge, AAU Berth

By GLEN McCLENDON
Journal Sports Writer

Vaughn Realty of Spokane turned the tables on the Cheney Studs of Tacoma Sunday afternoon and won the Northwest Regional AAU Basketball Tournament, played at Franklin High School.

Behind ex-Gonzaga stars Bill Suter and Gary Lechman, the Eastern Washington team fought back from a 46-41 half-time deficit to down the defending champion Studs, 91-87. "We've been aiming for them all year," revealed smiling player-coach Dick Hannan.

THROUGH the first half it looked as though the Studs were on their way to their third straight championship. With Dick Smith bucketing 19 of his 31 points in the first half, the Studs maintained a 10 point advantage most of the way.

The second half was all Vaughn Realty, though. With Suter triggering the attack out front and Lechman controlling things underneath the bucket, the Realtors grabbed the lead with six minutes gone in the half. Four minutes and four Suter buckets later the lead was up to 10 points.

Though the Studs closed the gap to one point with 4:06 to go, Vaughn Realty was able to hold the lead and salt the game away in the last two minutes with one-and-one free throws.

THE KEY to the Realtors' victory was team work and defense, ingredients often missing in AAU teams.

"The nucleus of this team has been here for five years and we've gotten so we can play together pretty well," admitted Hannan.

Meeting each other for the 10th time this year, Claudia's and Dr. Bernard's played one of their typical games — run and gun.

BEEFED UP with guards Rick Whelan and Jim Woodland, Claudia's held the upper hand throughout the first half. With Woodland canning long jumpers with uncanny accuracy and Jim Boutin pumping in fielders from all angles, Claudia's built to a 48-33 lead at one time, before Bernard's closed to within nine at half.

Midway through the second half Bernard's made their bid. Within a six minute span Donn Hakala pumped in 10 points and Steve Anstett 8 to move Bernard's into a one point lead, but the lead was short lived. Boutin tipped home a rebound seconds later to give Claudia's the lead for good.

For the tournament, Pauly was the leading scorer with 56 points.

fending champion Studs, 91-87. The victory puts the Realtors in the National tournament in Denver, March 26-30.

PORTLAND fans had to settle for watching home-town teams, Claudia's and Dr. Bernard's, battle it out for third place. Claudia's won it, 105-96.

For Vaughn Realty, the championship victory over the Studs was sweet revenge. In the past three years the Spokane team has lost only twice, both times to the Studs

Allen missed breaks that led Smith to NBA

By STEVE KELLEY
of The Oregonian staff

His post man was a 7-foot-2 basketball artist named Jabbar.

He played in front of crowds of 10,000 or more. And the only banners hanging in the arenas were hung in honor of past world champions.

Now, Greg Smith, who helped Claudia's to the Oregon Amateur Athletic Union basketball championship by scoring 17 points Sunday in a 106-101 win over Lu's Higher Ground, is back to his basketball roots and talking about his good fortune.

Smith, who ended his playing career with the Portland Trail Blazers in 1975, was a starter for the Milwaukee Bucks who won the NBA title in 1971. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar played on that team.

"I was lucky, a lot of players who could be pro basketball players don't get the breaks I got," Smith said after Sunday's championship game.

"The ABA (American Basketball Association) was my big break. I came along during the second year of the ABA, and there was a demand for a lot of basketball players," Smith said. "My coach was Larry Costello, who I think is a very good coach. I just got the right breaks."

Ironically, Sunday's loser, Lu's Higher Ground, had an example of a talented player who didn't get the breaks.

Amos Allen, the tournament's most valuable player, scored 35 points in a losing cause. The lithe, smooth-playing 6-3 guard drew praise from Smith.

"There is a lot of talent here and some guys, if they had tried, might have made it in pro basketball," Smith said. "Allen is one of them. He's a fine shooter."

Allen, who graduated from Jefferson High School but did not play basketball there, said the National Basketball Association was never more than a dream to him.

His basketball talent has been displayed only in front of small crowds, mostly family and friends. His post men rarely are taller than 6-5, and the only banners in the arenas in which he plays admonish the participants to refrain from dunking the ball. "Violators will be ejected from the building."

"I was always too small in high school, so I didn't have much confidence," Allen said. "I went to Seattle Central Community College for two years and played basketball and grew up and started getting my confidence."

"Now, I think I can play with the best of them," the 25-year-old continued. "I thought about trying out in a pro camp, but I didn't know how to go about it."

Largely on Allen's outside shooting, Lu's was able to maintain a lead for most of the first half.

Smith, however, scored six points in the final 49 seconds of the half, and Henry Harris added a bucket as Claudia's took a 60-53 lead.

Morris Griffin, who only scored four points in the first half, had nine points in the first 7½ minutes of the second half as Claudia's took an 82-71 lead with 12:33 to play.

Trailing 96-85 with 7:37 to play, Lu's made its final charge. John Boardman scored eight points, and Lu's added four free throws to slice the lead to 100-97 with 3:57 to play.

Spreading its offense, Claudia's went to a slowdown game and sprung Harris open for consecutive buckets to ease the pressure at 104-97.

The next action for the Amateur Athletic Union champs will be in Seattle in the regional tournament at a date to be announced.

Explaining Sunday's close game, Smith said, "We match up real well with each other. We've played four times this year and we won all four, but they were all close."

Smith played Sunday's game hobbled by a bad left leg which was tightly bandaged. A man who has experienced the glory of an NBA championship, Smith was asked why he continued to play.

"Because, I still care about the game a great deal," he said.

Claudia's Drops AAU Test

By JOHN HILSENTEGER
Sports Writer, The Oregonian

Federal Old Line Insurance of Seattle, dominating the backboards the second half, came from a 13-point deficit to whip Claudia's, 93-86, Sunday at Franklin High School for the Pacific Northwest AAU basketball championship.

The Seattle quint thus earned a berth in the National AAU tournament at Denver March 22-25. Some of the Olympic hoopsters will be culled from the national meet.

The Insurance men, under the direction of Coach Bill Morris, came out at the half, trailing 51-38, and dumped in 15 points to Claudia's three and pulled within one with 15:30 remaining to play.

Former Seattle University star Dan Stautz and ex-Seattle Pacific performer Bob Morris sparked the big rally, Stautz getting two buckets and a pair of free throws while Morris was pitching in three field goals.

Claudia's finally caught fire with Bob (Pudgy) Hunt, former Gonzaga player, flipping in a pair of hook shots, ex-Oregon star Chuck Rask getting a free throw and another ex-Duck, Steve Jones — who returned to the floor where he played his high school ball — jumping one through the hoop for an eight-point bulge.

The Puget Sound team never said die, though, and with 12:35 left was back within one point. Claudia's came on for the next three points, a pair of ex-Oregon Staters, Jim and Karl Anderson, doing the scoring for a six-point margin.

Stautz, who garnered only two points in the first half, dropped in a pair of jumpers and a couple of free throws to tie the score at 66-all, and Ed Corell, former Washington Husky, put his teammates in front for the first time since early in the game with an easy layin with 7:27 left to play.

Hunt dropped through a set shot to give Claudia's a 71-70 lead at 7:15, but another ex-Husky, Dale Easley, was accurate on a layin as he and his fellow players continually broke through to the bucket to take the lead for good.

Claudia's, playing with four fouls on four players, managed to stay within reach of victory until Corell canned another layin with 3:04 left to run the score to 82-78. From here the Seattle club stalled, forcing Claudia's to foul, and that was all she wrote.

Federal Old Line held a two-point margin at 6-4 in the first three minutes of action, but the Portlanders came on with a rally of their own and slowly built up the 51-38 halftime score.

Jones sparked the drive, hitting on the first three jump shots he tried, but his ability to find the basket only once in the second half against the tight-checking Federal defense was a big factor in the loss.

A total of 42 fouls was called in the contest played before an estimated 1,500 fans with Claudia's penalized 27 times.

Crown Near For Claudia's

Undefeated Claudia's needs only three wins in its last four games to clinch an outright major league championship in the Portland Basketball Association.

With three wins, Claudia's can assure itself of the second-half title to go along with its first-half crown and this would eliminate the necessity for a post-season playoff.

Priestley Oil and Dr. Bernard's Molars are the only teams with outside chances of catching the frontrunners. Claudia's will play J. J. Walker's at Cleveland High Monday at 8:40 p.m. in its next game.

Oregon's Barnett Joins Claudia's

University of Oregon's all-time scoring champion, Jim Barnett, will join Claudia's of Portland for the AAU district basketball playoffs in Seattle this weekend.

Claudia's will vie with Cheney Studs of Tacoma, Vaughn Realty of Spokane and Billings, Mont., for the Northwest berth in the national AAU tournament at Denver, Colo., later this month.

CLAUDIA'S Coach Walt Spitznagel indicated two others will be picked up to strengthen the Portland entry because of the loss of Jack Riley, Frank Peters and Jim Jarvis. Peters and Jarvis have signed professional baseball contracts and Riley has PIL coaching responsibilities that will prevent him from accompanying the team.

The two other additions will be chosen from among Oregon guard Dave Kafoury, Portland State forward John Nelson or ex-University of Portland center Cincy Powell, according to Spitznagel.

Pudgy Hunt was Claudia's hot shooter, pouring in 37 counters. Bob Salte was high for the visitors with 31.

Claudia's Captures PBA Title

Ex-Oregon State stars Jim Jarvis and Frank Peters were discussing spring training which lies ahead for both in the near future late Monday night.

But earlier in the evening their thoughts were entirely on basketball.

Jarvis and Peters combined with veteran Pudgy Hunt to lead Claudia's to the Portland Basketball Association championship for the third time in four years.

CLAUDIA'S defeated Dr. Bernard's Molars, 112-89, to win the best-of-three series, 2-0, before 1,000 fans at Franklin.

Hunt was high for Claudia's with 31 points.

Wheeler's, Claudia's Contend Here Today for Oregon AAU Hoop Mantle

Portland's city champions and Medford's host aggregation collide here this afternoon for the Oregon Association basketball championship of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Claudia's of Oregon's metropolis goes against the John Wheeler Logger team. Game time is 2 p.m. at Hedrick Junior High School gym.

Claudia's, runner-up in 1963 for the mantle earned the title shot by dethroning the defending champions, Priestley Oil of Portland, 63-61. Saturday afternoon semifinal in a thriller. Chuck Rask's pusher from the circle with four seconds left was the victory margin.

The Loggers, who operated as an independent club this season, surged away in the last 10 minutes to overcome a smooth and plucky playing but tiring Coquille Satans team 85-64 in Saturday's first game of the round of four.

John Wheeler began to pull away when the Loggers settled down, pulled together, started playing good team ball and took good shots.

After a see-saw conflict the Medford's nabbed the lead for keeps with 10:30 left in the game on a Rich Lyons jump shot from the corner for 48-46. Lyons followed with a short hook shot. Dale Bates put in two free points. Turner Tarver hit a jumper. Lyons scored on a feed, was fouled and missed his free shot but Tarver tallied on the rebound. Lyons added two more goals and fed Mike Glines for another.

In the meantime, the Statans had managed just five points and Wheeler led 64-51. Six minutes were left to go. The fast breaking Loggers had another spurt going in the final minutes and their widest margin was 25 points at 85-60.

Loggers Lead at Half

The score was knotted several times in the opening portion and in the second 10 minutes of the first half the lead changed hands several times. John Wheeler took a 36-34 half-time edge when Bob Hokanson tabulated twice in the last 50 seconds of the period.

Jack Jacobsen, Terry Wood and Dick Downs scored to get Coquille a 40-38 margin as the second half began. Wheeler caught up at 44-all when Bates fed Lyons on a fast break. Caryll Goetze hit from the corner for Coquille but Tarver tied the game at the free line for 46 each.

Lyons, the scoring and rebounding champ of the Oregon Collegiate conference this year, had 24 points. Tarver put in 13 and Hokansen 11.

For Coquille Downs had 19, and Jacobsen and Woods each 13.

Spoiled Bid

Claudia's and Priestley met for the fifth time this season and for the fifth time Claudia's was winner. This time the tavern crew spoiled the Oiler bid for a third straight banner which would have retired the AAU revolving trophy.

The finish yesterday more than gave the sparse crowd its money's worth.

With four minutes left to play and leading 59-58, Claudias turned to a freezing game. It worked until Paul Poetsch stole the ball for Priestley's. But the Oilers' chance went awry when Poetsch was whistled for charging in a collision which stunned Claudia's Bob Hunt and sent him limping to the sideline. Claudia's got the ball and continued its tactics.

Game Knotted

Poetsch fouled Rask, whose free shots made it 61-58 with 2:13 to play. With 1:41 left, Anderson fouled Poetsch, who made the first two. Claudia's rebounded on the miss of the second but Poetsch swiped the ball and was fouled by Stu Robertson. Poetsch made both shots to tie the game.

Claudia's went back to its stalling game played for the last good shot successfully. Priestley called time with two seconds left. Jack Viskov's pass to mid-court was intercepted by Rask, who bent over and held tightly to the ball. He was fouled at the buzzer but missed the try—as if it made any difference.

Priestley led through the first half and had a 36-30 gap at the rest. Claudia's caught Priestley at 42-all on Hunt's short rebound, and went on top 45-42 on Stu Robertson's tip and Hunt's gifter. The tavern team then went to 50-44. Priestley tied it when Don Porter was set up for a long set shot.

Porter Has 22

Rask put Claudia's back on top but Priestley moved out to 56-52. The city champs picked up seven straight points for a 59-56 gap. A Porter pusher for the Oilers established 59-58.

Rask scored 18 and Hunt 17 for the winners. Porter 22 and Tex Whiteman 13 for the losers.

The losses sent Coquille and Priestley into a third place game last night.

PAUL GLODEN led the Oregon champions with 22 points and teammate Stan

Rask, MAC Clip Champs

MAC guard Chuck Rask (7) maneuvers for position in Portland AAU basketball play-off action Sunday at Mt. Scott Community Center. Double-teaming Winged-M ace are Don Glass, left, and Roy Critzer (14) of Claudia's. MAC won state playoff berth.

Winged-M Hoopers Win Playoff Spot

Even as a "part time" coach, Arba Ager is a winner.

The former Portland State hoop boss lent some of his coaching savvy to the Multnomah Athletic Club basketball team this season and in the process guided the Winged-M team to the city and playoff titles.

OF COURSE it helps when you've got guys like Chuck Rask, Jim Altenhofen, Jack Viskov, Stu Robertson and Bob Hawes starting for you.

They were the starters for MAC at Mt. Scott Community Center Sunday afternoon and Ager's cagers almost ran state defending AAU champion Claudia's right out of the gym in the opening period.

The hot-handed MAC cagers eliminated Claudia's 75-68 to of Oregon guard flipped in 28 points and 11 of his points were scored in the final half when Claudia's suddenly surged back into contention.

After building a 14-point lead at the start of the second half, Multnomah Athletic Clubbers watched Claudia's, on the excellent marksmanship of former Oregon Staters Bill Wold and Roy Critzer, pull into a 57-57 tie and 59-all before Rask put MAC ahead again 61-59 with five minutes to go.

CLAUDIA'S sliced the margin again to three points in the final minute as Critzer collected his 21st point of the afternoon to make it 71-68.

Although Rask fouled out with 1:57 remaining MAC didn't lose its composure. Altenhofen banked in a pusher and Hawes added a pair of gift tosses to close out Claudia's bid for repeat title hopes.

Scoring:

CLAUDIA'S 68—Hunt 17, Dirks, Anderson 6, Bennick 10, Critzer 21, Gass, Wold 9, Elliott 5.

Bob Jacobson and Jim Woodland, both former Oregon State standouts, scored 22 and 22 points respectively to lead Truax Oil to a 101-89 victory over Longview Shamrocks and the Oregon State AAU championship at Mt. Scott Community Center Sunday.

The winners now advance to the regional AAU playoffs at a date and site to be determined.

Don Hakala scored 33 points and Pudgy Hunt 32 as Claudia's took third place with a 117-107 win over Multnomah Athletic Club. Jim Boutin tallied 36 to lead Gideon Stolz past Baker's Men's Wear, 96-80, in the consolation final.

Theme, Claudia's Win

No matter who wins the final playoff game to qualify for the Oregon AAU basketball championships, one thing is fairly certain—they will have to score near, and probably over, 100 points to gain the District 1 berth.

Claudia's and The Theme meet in an 8:30 p.m. final at Mt. Scott Community center Saturday after prevailing in semifinal games at Franklin high school Thursday night, both squads exhibiting a tremendous amount of scoring punch.

After marking up a paltry 18 points in the first quarter of their tilt with ABC Roofing, The Theme men broke loose in the second period and finally totalled 97 points to dump the Roofers, 97-76.

The Claudians never had to "rally" to beat Lake Oswego National Guard as they compiled 27 points in the first quarter while the Guardsmen couldn't find the hoop and had to settle for a tragic four points. The Guard came to life in the second half—much too late—and finished the game on the short end of a 103-78 final score.

Winner of Saturday night's contest will go to Hermiston March 8-10 for the Oregon tourney.

As significant as the fact that both winners scored high as a team was that each squad had three men who pumped for 20 or more points, illustrating the impossibility of concentrating defensive efforts upon one

Claudia's Takes Lead In PBA Hoop Series

Claudia's will go into Wednesday night's second playoff for the PBA major league championship with a one-game edge after dropping Priestley Oil, 103-88, in Monday night's opener of a best of three series.

The loss avenged two earlier defeats at the hands of the Priestley Oil crew and gives Claudia's a chance to wrap up the title in Wednesday night's game.

Priestley led at halftime Monday by a narrow 42-41 count but got into foul trouble in the second half and ended up playing with only four men the final few minutes. Fouls claimed three Oilers and Wendall Stone-lake suffered a broken finger to leave the Oilers short handed.

Offensively Jack Riley of Claudia's was the big man as he hit the nets for 36 points to easily pace all scorers. Chuck Rask added 21, Bjarne Jensen 17 and Gene Gass for the winners.

CLAUDIA'S VS. ROOKS SATURDAY NIGHT

Gardiner Gym Site Of Dad's Club Game

Correction please—the Oregon State Rooks will tangle with Claudia's of Portland in the Thora B. Gardiner Junior High School gym at 8 p.m. Saturday, not in the Oregon City High School gym as previously announced.

Tickets for the contest, sponsored by the Oregon City dad's club, can be purchased at the door and will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. A preliminary contest will start the evening of basketball at 6 o'clock.

Claudia's sports a 21-1 win-loss record at the present while the Rooks have a six-win, five-loss record against tough competition. The AAU five currently is on top of the Portland Basketball Association and needs only a couple of wins to wrap up the conference crown.

Bob "Pudgy" Hunt, former Gonzaga University star, is the leading point-getter for the Claudia's quintet and has averaged 28 points a game. Following Hunt in the point parade is ex-Oregon University ace Chuck Rask who has counted 20 points per game. Rask was named to the third team All-American squad in 1960 during his senior year at Eugene.

Dale Herron, Oregon City High School hoop coach, will also be on hand to play for Claudia's. The six-foot, five-inch cage mentor played his college basketball with the University of Oregon and was one of the top rebounders on the coast.

Two other familiar faces to Clackamas County basketball buffs are also due to appear with Claudia's. Ed Grossenbacher, former Milwaukie High School ex-Duck, and Bob Fox, 6-5, who played at Lewis and Clark.

Jay Carty, ex-Beaver star and coach of the OSU freshman team, will counter with such former high school aces as Gary Allen, Jeff Cudworth and Mike Erlingheuser.

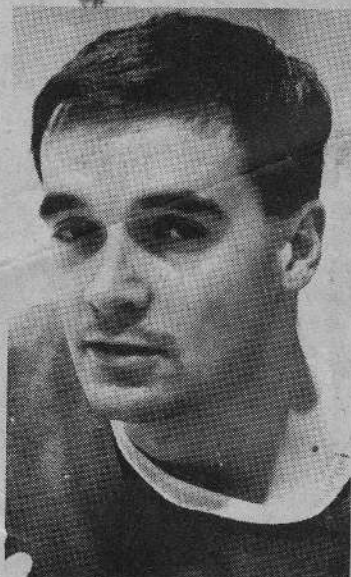

Erlingheuser is the big man in the Rock lineup—standing 6-10 -- and is the Beavers hope as Mel Counts' replacement next season. The San Gabriel, California, skyscraper is third in Rook scoring this year with a 12 point game average in 11 contests.

Allen, former South Salem High School star, is the leading point-getter for the Rooks with a 14.3 average followed by Jeff Cudworth who has averaged 13.3 points per game. Cudworth hails from Redwood City, California.

Others scheduled to make the trip up from Corvallis with the Rooks are Carl Sandstrom, former Sandy standout, Ed Fredenberg of Coos Bay, Larry French of Pendleton, Kent Gooding of Henley, Rex Kochel from Ventura, Calif., and Tom Mohrman from Long Island, New York.

The Rooks aren't lacking for height with Sandstrom at 6-6, Fredenberg 6-6, French 6-6, Gooding 6-7 and Kochel 6-4. Mohrman checks in at an even six feet.

OSU's freshmen five have defeated Portland University twice, split with the Oregon Ducklings, topped Truax Oil of Corvallis, downed General Sales of Portland and beaten Priestly Oil of Portland. Their losses have come at the hands of Truax Oil twice, the Multnomah Athletic Club and the Oregon Dental-Medical school.

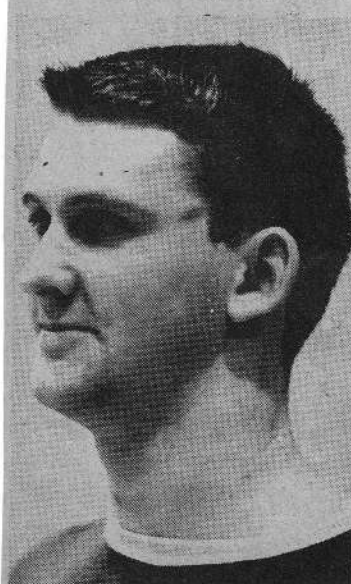

DON GASS
Former Mustang Ace

cager and little All-American at Willamette, has been sharing hoop duties between Claudia's and the Oregon Medical School teams and have averaged 12 points a game for the AAU five. Don Gass, a 6-4 ex-Portland University ace and former performer for Milwaukie High, is also slated to make an appearance.

Newberg basketball coach Jim Anderson is also on the Claudia's roster and has averaged 16 points a game for the AAU team. Anderson is a former Oregon State University standout. Karl Anderson, no relation to Jim Anderson, gives the Claudia's outfit its height—checking in at six-feet, ten-inches. Anderson also played for OSU.

Rounding out the Claudia's roster are Stu Robertson, 6-5

Ducks Join Claudia's '5'

Claudia's, Oregon AAU basketball champion, plans an all-out try for regional and national honors and made that plain Wednesday by "beefing up" its squad for Sunday's showdown battle with the Washington state champion.

Gene Spathas, sponsor of Claudia's, revealed that University of Oregon stars Steve Jones and Jim Johnson both have agreed to join the team for the rest of the season. Spathas said that he hopes to line up one more new man, possibly University of Portland's Steve Anstett.

Claudia's made a bid Wednesday to get Oregon State's 7-foot Mel Counts on its roster but the Beaver standout, who already has a date to try out for the U.S. Olympic team, declined the invitation.

Jones and Johnson join a team which already boasts such former college aces as Chuck Rask, Stu Robertson, Karl and Jim Anderson and Bob Hunt.

Claudia Wins City Title, 96-87, Faces Player Shortage for State

By FRANK FLORI

Claudia's finally stopped Priestley Oil's hold on city basketball championships with a 96-87 win in the rubber playoff game Wednesday, but now the state AAU championships present a player problem.

Because five of Claudia's eight players are coaches, Coach Walt Spitznagle is confronted with a major task in fielding a team for Friday night's opening tourney game against Corvallis.

Claudia, Priestley and The Theme of the Portland City league are in the state tourney. Each is allowed to add two players for the AAU tourney.

So far Claudia has added Jim Altenhofen from the Multnomah Athletic Club and must find another player, or spring one of the coaches loose Friday.

Priestley will act as the host team, but play under its own colors in the state tourney which begins at Hershey school Friday morning and this season, with Claudia's holding a 4-3 edge.

Both clubs were emotionally ready for the title showdown Wednesday. Fouls were frequent and an occasional elbow wandered. Priestley finished with three players on the floor the final 1:09 and had four at 2:10 mark.

Thirty-four fouls were whistled on the Oilers, 30 on Claudia's.

Rask scored eight points and the other Claudia starters contributed balanced scoring as the city champions moved to a 26-14 first quarter lead. Claudia's first half lead ballooned to 41-20 with 6:25 left.

But the Oilers came back to cut it to 11 at half-time, with Viskov singing a jump shot before the intermission horn. Viskov cut it to 49-40 as the second half began, but Dale Herron and Riley began to score and Claudia's pulled away to 66-50 and it was all over.

It was 72-59 at the third period break (they play 10 minute periods) and the teams closed out the game with a flurry of foul shots.

Priestley Coach Viskov said his club plans to add one player for the state tourney. General Sales' Dick Jolley.

Claudia's Nab Lead In Playoff Series

And Claudia's romped over Priestley Oil 103-88 in the first game of a Portland Basketball Association playoff game Monday night to take the lead in the best-of-three series. The winner gains a berth in the state AAU tournament at Hermiston.

Priestley was hurt by fouls which reduced the team to only five men. And then it was reduced even further when Wendell Stonelake broke a finger and Priestley was forced to finish with just four players.

Jack Parker paced the losers with just 25 points.

Ducks Join Claudia's '5'

Claudia's, Oregon AAU basketball champion, plans an all-out try for regional and national honors and made that plain Wednesday by "beefing up" its squad for Sunday's showdown battle with the Washington state champion.

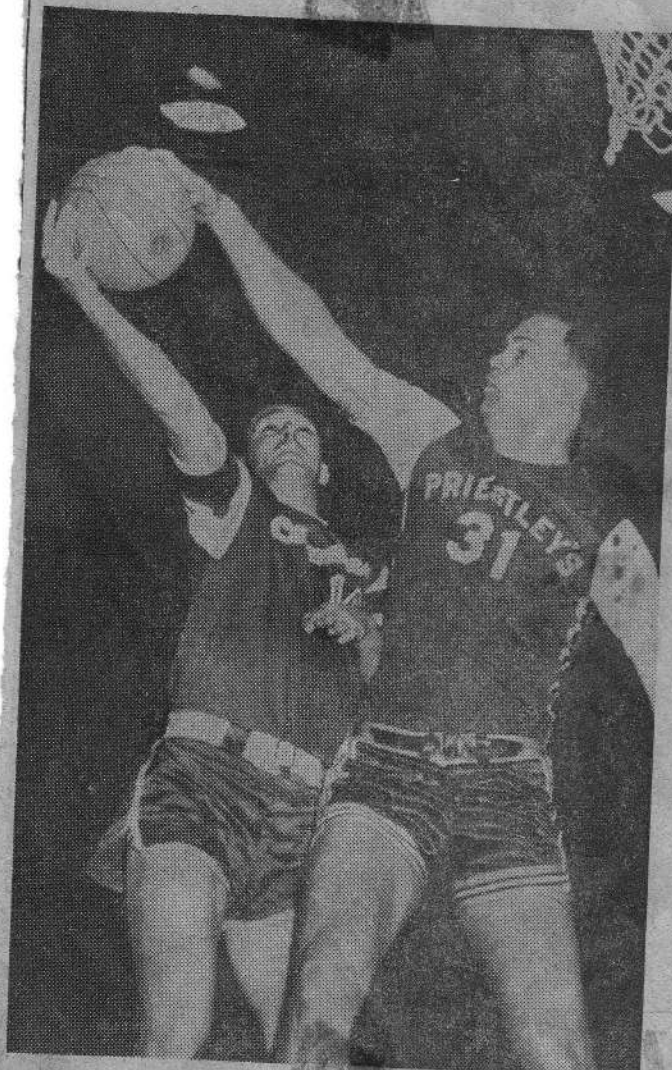

Gene Spathas, sponsor of Claudia's, revealed that University of Oregon stars Steve Jones and Jim Johnson both have agreed to join the team for the rest of the season. Spathas said that he hopes to line up one more new man, possibly University of Portland's Steve Anstett.

Claudia's made a bid Wednesday to get Oregon State's 7-foot Mel Counts on its roster but the Beaver standout, who already has a date to try out for the U.S. Olympic team, declined the invitation.

Jones and Johnson join a team which already boasts such former college aces as Chuck Rask, Stu Robertson, Karl and Jim Anderson and Bob Hunt.

Claudia's plays its Sunday game at Franklin High School at 2 p.m. The opponent from Washington will be either Federal Old Line of Seattle or Vaughn Realty of Spokane.

ing a .810 mark from the foul line. He rebounds like a strapping forward and "has that ability to always see the open man for a pass," added Harper.

"WE'VE SEEN them all — Jarvis, Peters, the Joneses, Barnett, Rask —" says Claudia's Coach Walt Spitznagel, whose AAU team fell to the Rooks Saturday at Lake Oswego, "and Boyd is incomparable."

Boyd played the game with a taped-up fractured nose which he suffered in a Rooks' practice session last Wednesday.

"The break stopped off his nasal passages and builds up a lot of pressure in his head when he exerts himself," said Harper of Boyd. "He was dizzy and felt sick the whole game."

BOYD DIDN'T look dizzy — or sick either.

He spun in 21 points on

OK SO this Boyd guy is for real. So how did Oregon State get him away from the likes of UCLA and USC?

"I thought I'd just have a better chance to make it 'up North'" said the soft-spoken Boyd. "Oregon State has a great program and I think I can be a part of what can be a great team."

UCLA which will graduate three of its four senior two-year lettermen guards — Kenny Heitz, Don Saffer and Bill Sweek — probably could have found a spot for Boyd too.

"WELL MY high school coach Ralph Kraive is an ex-Oregon Stater and he helped make up my mind" smiles Boyd.

Boyd plans on a PE major and is hitting the books with dedication. Harper describes him as "an average-to-good student with the right attitude to make it both ways for OSU — scholastically and on the court."

OSU Rooks, Claudia Battle At Oregon

Clackamas county basketball buffs will have the opportunity to see one of the top AAU teams in the Northwest Saturday night and at the same time get a glimpse at future Oregon State University cage prospects when the OSU frosh five takes on Claudia's of Portland in the Oregon City gym.

The game is scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m. with a preliminary game scheduled at 6 p.m. The evening of basketball is sponsored by the Oregon City Dad's club.

The Oregon State greenies, coached by former Beaver hoop star Jay Carty, will bring into the Pioneer gym an array of last year's high school talent headed by Gary Allen, Jeff Cudworth and Mike Erlingheuser.

Allen, who starred for South Salem High School, is the leading scorer on the Rook five, averaging 14.3 points per game for 11 games. Cudworth, a California import from Redwood City, is second in the scoring department with a 17.5 average. Erlingheuser is the big man in the O's standing 6-foot, 10 inches and hails from Redwood City, Calif. He is averaging 15.5 a game for the Rooks.

The Rooks are a six-win, five-loss team this season against AAU competition. They are against other top teams, topping Portland twice during the season and gained a share of the Oregon City contest. The competition has been tough. AAU teams in Oregon have victories over last year's Portland Truax Oil of Corvallis, General Sales of Portland. Frosh have lost once to Multnomah and dropped a game to the Oregon City School.

Claudia's is coached by the Portland E

Long a hotbed of Legion baseball under the fine program of coach Bill Harper, Roseburg can indeed be proud of Stewart field. Profits from the Legion program have been plowed back into the park, which now seats approximately 3,500. Participating in the Western Regional will be the champions of Alaska, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming. Teams from California, Hawaii and Arizona will participate in another regional at Long Beach at approximately the same time. The tournament at Roseburg is expected to start sometime after Aug. 12.

There is a good possibility this season that an Oregon team could represent the Pacific Northwest in the National AAU basketball tournament at Denver in March. Winner of the Oregon tournament, to be held at Hermiston March 1-3, will be the home team in the finals of the regional playdown with clubs from western Washington and the Inland Empire and Montana knocking heads in previous contests. Another factor which might lead to an Oregon team joining the select 16 in Colorado is the caliber of AAU basketball in the state. 2/1/1962

Particularly outstanding have been teams representing Claudia's and Priestley Oil in Portland. In fact, the Portland Major league has the greatest amount of talent in the past 10 years as ABC Roofing, General Sales, Multnomah Athletic Club and The Theme, all are loaded with ex-college and high school standouts.

Claudia's, led by Bjarne Jensen, Jack Riley, John Gambee, Ken Nanson, Eddie Grossenbacher and Chuck Rask, was the winner of the first half of Major league play. This team vies at Franklin for the second half title on Thursday with Priestley, a combination which has top performers in Jack Parker, Don Porter, Jack Viskov and Ron Koski. An earlier meeting between the two teams in second half play saw Priestley win, 94-91, after a 24-point lead on the part of Claudia's melted away. Four players for Claudia's fouled out leaving only three on the floor in the final stages of the game.

Regardless of which team wins on Thursday night, both will be in the state AAU tournament along with outstanding quintets from Salem, Corvallis (Truax Oil) which has a host of ex-OSU stars plus Bob Hunt who starred at Gonzaga) and Eugene. The Priestley Oil team will change its name to the Hermiston Merchants for the state event and will act as host. Two years ago this team played in the City league under the Hermiston label. Incidentally, by having the tournament at Hermiston, the Oregon AAU can be sure of having enough funds should a trip to Denver be necessary.

Claudia's To Meet LO Guard

By ALLEN HEIN

Claudia's won the game and the role of tourney favorite Wednesday night as it knocked off General Sales, 90-79, at Franklin high school.

Next step for Claudia's toward the Oregon AAU basketball championships comes Thursday night when the Portland team meets Lake Oswego National Guard.

The Guard stopped the Shamrocks of Kelso, Wash., 76-75, at Cleveland high. In the other semifinal tilt, The Theme faces ABC Roofing.

The Theme dumped the Showboat of Beaverton, 84-61, and ABC slipped by the Multnomah Athletic club, 69-64, in quarterfinal games Wednesday.

General Sales and Claudia's were top-seeded in the District 1 playoff, but GSC couldn't match Claudia's in the second half and was eliminated from the playoffs by the loss.

GSC led through most of the first quarter and was ahead by two at 21-19 when the period ended. Claudia's tied the score at 23-23, fell behind again and then went ahead for the first time in GSC cut the margin to 30-29.

Claudia Quint Eyes Seattle Foe

Northwest collegiate stars Claudia quintet waltzed through a 33-1 season in gaining the Portland Basketball Association title for the second straight year and winning the Oregon state AAU crown.

Claudia's is led by guard Chuck Rask, voted two consecutive years the most valuable player in the AAU tourney, and to Pudgy Hunt, who started in his collegiate days at Spokane's Gonzaga University.

THE TWO AAU teams, loaded with former University of Washington, Seattle University, Oregon State, Gonzaga and University of Oregon stars, will decide the Denver entry at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Franklin High gymnasium. Coach Walt Spitznagel's gon, and Don Gass.

Spitznagel also picked up Steve Jones and Jim Johnson, standout seniors on this winter's University of Oregon varsity.

Federal Old Line of Seattle won the right to meet Claudia's by eliminating Vaughn Realty of Spokane in the Inland Empire city 103-80 Thursday night.

THE OLD LINERS are led by former Washington stars, Ed Corell, Dale Easley and Bill Hanson, a 6-10 center, and Seattle University's Dan Stautz.

The winner of the inter-state AAU rivalry will be one of 16 finalists competing in the Denver tournament.

A collection of ex-collegiate stars will square off Sunday afternoon at Franklin High School where Claudia's of Portland tangles with Federal Old Line Insurance of Seattle for the Pacific Northwest AAU basketball championship.

The 2 p.m. contest not only decides the title but also gives the winner a berth in the National AAU tournament scheduled for Denver March 22-24.

Four colleges are represented on Claudia's squad with Karl Anderson, former Oregon State center, one of the standouts. Other members and their schools are: Bob Hunt, Oregon; Jim Altenhofen, Central Catholic; Stu Robertson, Oregon; Jim Johnson, Oregon; Chuck Rask, Oregon; Jim Anderson, Oregon State; Ed Grosenbacher, Willamette; and Steve Jones, Oregon.

Both Johnson and Jones just completed their collegiate careers last weekend with Oregon's final two games of the season.

The starting lineup for Federal Old line has players from three schools on it. Ed Corell, Dale Easley and Lyle Bakken are all ex-Washington players, while Dan Stautz and Dave Wortman competed at Seattle University.

Metropolitan Titlists Swamp Wheeler Loggers In Tourney Finale Here

Claudia's of Portland reigns as champion in basketball of the Oregon Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

The machine-functioning metropolitan titlists, capitalizing on togetherness developed in frequent action through the season, thumped John Wheeler Loggers of Medford 110-76 in the state tournament finals at Hedrick Junior High School gym.

Claudia's quickly grabbed a 6-0 start and led throughout the tussle. Wheeler's stayed close for the first few minutes but by the midpoint of the first half the Portlanders had a bulge of 26-14.

Scoring balanced out over the next 10 minutes for a 46-33 half-time span. Claudia's began the second half with a spur, slowed slightly, gradually pulled away then piled up points at the finish. The widest advantage was 37 points at 100-63.

Teamwork Pays

Better organization — another way of saying teamwork, better shooting, better defense, stronger rebounding and balanced scoring went into the championship effort. Claudia's ran when the opportunity presented. But, when Wheeler defense was set, the Portlanders took the time and worked expertly for good shots.

Claudia's; Hokanson and Lyons, Wheeler's; Woods and Don Adams, Coquille; Viskov and Don Koepke, Priestley; Bill Wold, Truax; Pat Smith, Eugene Recreation, and Fidel Gaviola, Gideon-Stoltz.

A crowd of possibly over 300 fans, 256 of them paid admissions, saw the championship game.

FOR THE "BIRDS"— Injury cut short NBA career of former Portland Trail Blazer Phil Lumpkin after only two seasons, but Blazers' second-round draft choice in 1974 is back in Portland student teaching at Lincoln High and will be No. 1 assistant in Card hoop program. Lumpkin closed out pro career with Phoenix club which finished second to world champion Boston Celtics in 1976.

It's 'Coach' Lumpkin now

By JOHN NOLEN
Journal Sports Writer

It's a long way from playing in the NBA championship finals to student teaching at Lincoln High School in Portland, Ore.

But Phil Lumpkin has traveled that route — in fewer than 18 months.

And he apparently is making the transition with ease.

"Pro basketball's not the only way to survive in life," says the sharp, soft-spoken Lumpkin, whose brief, two-year pro basketball career began with the Portland Trail Blazers and ended after the next season in Phoenix, where he collected a second-place share of NBA playoff money with the Suns.

"You have to have options in life. And I think this offers me one of those alternatives."

"This" means student teaching PE at Lincoln, where he began his duties Tuesday.

It also means, says Jerry Carr, Lincoln's head basketball coach, that Lumpkin will be the Cardinals' No. 1 basketball assistant this winter.

"This is the first step, although I may never even coach," insists Lumpkin, a realist although he is noted for his positive nature.

"Listen," Carr insists, "Phil will assist me. I want him with me. And he'll do a good job."

Carr and Lumpkin first became acquainted when Carr ran Lenny Wilkens' camp in Issaquah, Wash., and Wilkens (then Trail Blazer coach) had drafted Lumpkin in the second round of the 1974 college draft.

"Phil relates very well," said Carr, "and he's positive but soft . . . exactly what Lincoln needs."

What forced Lumpkin, a 6-1 guard out of Miami (Ohio), into "accepting one of my options" after only two years of pro basketball?

"To be brutally honest," he says slowly, "my knee injury did more to end my career than anything. Portland traded me to Phoenix and I tore some cartilage in my right knee two days after I got there."

"They finally operated on me around the first of November and I was back the 23rd of January. I didn't have adequate time to rehabilitate the knee, but playing with a team that goes all the way to the finals . . . to the sixth game (before Phoenix lost to Boston) was fun, really fun."

"Still, I didn't have time to continue rehabilitation during the short time off in the summer, and then I reinjured it . . ."

"You know, look at Lloyd Neal. They (the Blazers) are letting him come back from his surgery slowly. But I didn't have that opportunity. Phoenix will not tell you that my knee was the reason they waived me before the start of last season. But I feel they didn't want to take the chance of me reinjuring it."

Is he bitter?

"Bitter?" Lumpkin said, pausing. "No. Disappointed? Yes."

"It's just that it's tough to put it down all of a sudden because you enjoy the sport, and it hurts not to be able to participate in the game."

"At least I can say I happened to be part of history in Phoenix, and I was let go at the top . . ."

Lumpkin also is considering playing AAU basketball with Claudia's, "depending on my physical and mental state. I won't rush getting into playing shape, and I may play if it won't kill my body," he laughed.

"I'd have to be able to play at my own pace, because my knee will never again be 100 per cent. And then there's always the fact that if I hurt it again, I may never walk."

Discipline is a popular word in Lumpkin's vocabulary.

"You've got to have a factor of discipline," he says, "or you won't ever get any place."

And that, he feels, is what hurt the Blazers during his 1974-75 season in Portland.

"Except for two players, most were professionally serious about their jobs," says Lumpkin. He declined to name names, however.

In addition, Lumpkin feels, "We won 38 games, but if (Bill) Walton had played 30 games that season the way he played 66 last season, where would that have put us?"

"I'm not trying to rap the guy," Lumpkin insists, "because this is all pure speculation on my part."

Life is only beginning, it seems, for Phil Lumpkin, who will be 26 in December.

And the words "giving up" do not set well with him.

"Crying in your beer," he says, "is not the way to get it done."
