

ZAGAT

STORY

10 New Burgers You Need to Try in San Diego

TAKE A BITE OUT OF THE NEWCOMERS, FROM FANCIED-UP BEEF TO PLANT-BASED PATTIES

San Diego has no shortage of popular standbys for a satisfying burger, with Rocky's Crown Pub, Hodad's, Juniper & Ivy and Torrey Pines Grill topping the list for best burgers. As good as these classics are, don't let them distract you from discovering your next new favorite burger. Check out our list of brand-new burgers to try, from a beefy classic served at a cocktail bar to a looser interpretation topped with a crab cake.

Chef's burger at Common Theory Public House

New executive chef A.G. Warfield is shaking things up at this Convoy hub with beast of a burger. It starts with a ground chuck patty, to which is added a crab cake, melted cheddar cheese, hollandaise sauce, arugula and a fried egg. It's all piled onto a soft brioche bun, and each burger order comes with a choice of hand-cut fries or spicy kimchi slaw.

4805 Convoy St.; 858-384-7974