

Everything You Can Do in Atlanta This Weekend

It's the last full weekend of July, and with it comes the final stretch of the summer. Teachers, kids, and college students will -- surprisingly -- be returning to school before they know it, and as workplaces begin adapting to COVID-19, many others will probably be going to work soon as well. However, there is still plenty of time throughout the next few weeks to make the summer of 2020 an unforgettable one, from spending time with friends and family to simply enjoying the weather. Here is everything you can safely do in Atlanta this weekend to continue enjoying summer to the fullest.

Enjoy some live music on Jai Ho's patio

Friday, July 24 - Saturday, July 25

Midtown

Finding live music throughout the pandemic has been a struggle, but Jai Ho is one of the restaurants in the city that's safely holding performances from local musicians. Throughout the rest of the summer on Fridays and Saturdays, Jai Ho is dedicating its spacious patio to live music, so grab some great food and enjoy the tunes.
