Pizzeria Sapori isn't your average American pizza joint. The restaurant takes pride in the simplicity and heritage behind their menu, offering thin-crust Neapolitan pizza that differs from the standard cheesy slices we've come to know and love. They stick to tradition at Pizzeria Sapori: the dough is fermented for 72 hours and cooked in a very specific manner—using important ingredients like tomatoes imported especially from Italy. While the selection isn't vast, the restaurant focuses on perfecting the types they do have so the experience can be even better for their customers. With extra virgin olive oil and spices like basil or oregano, these pizzas have plenty of flavor. If you're looking for a snack before your meal or a smaller plate, Pizzeria Sapori also offers antipasti like fried calamari, green olives, meatballs, rosemary focaccia and four different salads.
